Dangerous Muse Performs at Mr Black

Last Friday night, emerging electro-pop duo Dangerous Muse performed a rare show at Mr Black to play a few new songs from their forthcoming debut album. And wow! Even though they kept the crowd waiting until way after midnight, the two didn't disappoint.

I was not only impressed by the quality of their hot new material, but also by the production of their very detailed and well-coordinated stage show that was extravagant, eclectic and endlessly entertaining. Taking cues from Roman gladiators, Mad Max and a little bit of Gaga, singer Mike flirted with the audience like a sci-fi pop warrior across the stage. (In fact, their upcoming new video for "I Want It All" seems take similar cues.)

These guys are so very ready for the big time. It is time for Warner to get it together and throw all their support behind them. Dangerous Muse are dynamite waiting to happen.

Look out for their new single "I Want It All" very soon. There's even buzz about a brief tour this year, so stay tuned for more details about that.
